Why We Founded IMPax

Brenda Im, Founder of IMPax

After our daughter was diagnosed with an auto-immune disorder, my husband Greg and I began the search that ultimately led to EnerPrime. What is now our flagship product is the result of everything we learned around the world about the immune system. The synergy of EnerPrime's ingredients worked so well for our daughter that a bigger picture emerged. We knew EnerPrime had the potential to make a genuine difference in the lives of many others.

When we introduced EnerPrime to the public, I explained that a well-functioning immune system is the foundation for good health. Most of my audiences did not realize that the immune system is linked to much more than just AIDS. For example, allergies, arthritis, chronic fatigue, diabetes, fibromyalgia, multiple sclerosis and even the common cold are all related to an immune system that is not functioning properly. I emphasized EnerPrime's ability to work at the deepest level to support the immune system. I encouraged people not to judge EnerPrime on a superficial "feel-it" basis.

Then the testimonies started pouring in, one after another: "I know I'm not supposed to feel anything, but I feel so much better on EnerPrime! It's helping me with..." The wonderful testimonies in this issue are representative of what we hear all the time. We are blessed to have a product that does so much for so many.

What about those individuals who have not had health challenges like those featured in this issue? Do they need EnerPrime? We receive countless EnerPrime testimonies from people who considered themselves healthy before taking it. These testimonies include enjoying deeper and more restful sleep, having more energy and stamina, handling stress better and getting sick rarely, if ever. It is common to hear our customers say, "I haven't caught a cold all year!"

I hope this issue inspires you to achieve new levels of health personally, and to share EnerPrime with a world that desperately needs it. That's why we founded IMPax!

“Within a few days EnerPrime started changing my life...”

By the time a friend introduced me to EnerPrime, I had been suffering from an eighteen year run of bad health. It started in 1985 when an irritable bowel led to a diagnosis of fibromyalgia. Four years later I was enjoying a successful career selling real estate when my irritable bowel symptoms became worse. Imagine my embarrassment at being forced to change clothing at service stations when on sales calls with clients! I was experiencing tendonitis and bursitis as well, both symptoms of fibromyalgia.

In January, 1990, my body took a big hit. I began displaying flu-like symptoms, became feverish and lost all my energy. I spent the next four months in bed. Eventually I was able to get out of bed, but for the next few years I could barely function due to fatigue.

In August, 2001, I began to get dizzy spells. A blood draw revealed that my hemoglobin was so low I was close to death. I had to have blood transfusions every few weeks for the next two years.

During this period I began to experience pain in my intestines so bad I could hardly eat. I couldn't walk or drive, and needed a wheelchair and walker to get around. I was diagnosed with Crohn's Disease, which attacks the intestines and is characterized by gut pain, fatigue and diarrhea. I was barely able to talk.

To further complicate matters the colonoscopies and endoscopies didn't support the findings in my bloodwork. They showed nothing wrong. The doctors had me swallow a revolutionary pill-sized camera which takes a picture every two seconds as it travels through the small intestines, transmitting color images to a tracking receiver and computer. My case became famous throughout the hospital due to this technology.

The camera's battery died too soon, however, and when my body wouldn't eliminate it they had to open me up to get it out. The surgeon took out the badly diseased portion of my intestines, removing two feet of it along with the camera. He also found a bleeding AVM (arteriovenous malformation) the size of a tennis ball several feet up from the rupture area and removed that along with another six inches of intestine. He later told me it was an aneurism-like ball of veins and arteries that had been leaking blood for years, and that I was very lucky to be alive.

In December, 2002, my husband encouraged me to accept my friend Marion's invitation to her beach-front condo in Hawaii for some R & R. I didn't want to go due to my fatigue. But everyone insisted, and on the last day of December I took the flight. When I arrived at Marion's place I was so exhausted I went straight to bed and slept right through the New Year's Eve celebrations.

On New Year's day, 2003, Marion introduced me to EnerPrime and insisted I try it. I was very skeptical but took it to placate her. "More MLM stuff," I thought. Marion gave me EnerPrime every morning, often whipping up tropical concoctions. Within a few days it started changing my life. I felt energy for the first time in years. My brain fog started to lift. After lying in bed most of my first week in Hawaii, I began feeling well enough to go to the beach. It was only five yards to the water but up until then I had been unable to walk the distance without wobbling. The ocean surging over my feet felt so good!

I never used the wheelchair again. But incredibly enough I hadn't yet made the connection. I sat on the beach in Hawaii wondering if my recovery wasn't due to the wonderful weather. On returning to Oregon I stopped taking EnerPrime because Marion wasn't there to make it. My new-found health disappeared and I took to my bed. Four days later I remembered that Marion had given me a bottle of EnerPrime. One dose of EnerPrime and my strength returned. The connection was now crystal clear!

When I visited the hospital for my next check-up all the doctors and nurses were amazed that I was walking around and looking so well. I shared the following with them: since starting on EnerPrime the terrible pain from the left-over intestines diseased with Crohn's (which the doctors hadn't removed because I would have needed a colostomy bag the rest of my life) was GONE! And the energy with which I had once served my church and built my business was BACK!

I believe God used EnerPrime as the means to make me better. I now tell everyone about EnerPrime in the hope that it will bless their health as it has blessed mine.

“I noticed marked improvement in my health...”

I was introduced to EnerPrime after two months of battling with symptoms that my doctor said “may be the beginning of chronic fatigue syndrome”. I was completely lacking in energy and pretty much “on the couch” throughout September and October of last year. I felt achy and had chills.

Within days of starting on EnerPrime I noticed a marked improvement in my overall health. I had a lot more energy and believe that EnerPrime, along with an improved diet and adequate rest, contributed significantly to the gradual lessening of symptoms related to chronic fatigue syndrome. My wife, a research nurse, was pleased to observe that my skin color and tone were much better. She made sure I took EnerPrime without fail.

Now, six months after the original consultation with my doctor, EnerPrime is an integral part of my supplemental daily regimen. I am able to go about my life as I did prior to my sickness last September.

As an added bonus, EnerPrime contributed to a 52 point drop in my cholesterol (229 to 177)!

“They wanted to put me on chemo...”

Several years ago I was diagnosed with Polycythemia Rubiavara, a form of leukemia. I started chemotherapy but quit soon after because my body couldn't take it. I then had to go in for regular phlebotomies due to my condition. I felt very weak, could hardly walk, got bad headaches and sometimes became incoherent. The phlebotomies helped me because they reduced the number of platelets in my blood.

I like to visit Sacramento every three weeks to see my grandchildren and friends. However, I live several thousand feet up in the mountains and the drive has been very difficult for me because of the leukemia. Sometimes I couldn't take the drive at all due to lack of energy.

Three years ago I was introduced to EnerPrime and quickly noticed a major increase in energy and stamina. I got into the habit of taking EnerPrime mixed in orange juice immediately before my drive to Sacramento. It keeps me alert the whole way there. Then I take EnerPrime again before heading home. It always converts my tiredness into energy and makes the return trip easy at the end of the day.

Perhaps the EnerPrime was too effective because I started to feel so well that I stopped taking it for six weeks. I almost died during this period. Rapid deterioration forced me into a hospital bed, where I couldn't even raise my head. They told me my polycythemia had graduated to full-blown leukemia and started to prepare me for the possibility of death.

They wanted to put me on chemo, but I said, “No, I know what to do.” I went back on EnerPrime. Gradually, I began to feel well again. My energy returned, and several weeks later I was re-diagnosed. I no longer had full-blown leukemia, but had gone back to the lower grade polycythemia.

I've received one more benefit from EnerPrime that I believe is worth mentioning. I used to sleep very poorly. I'd wake up three times a night and it would often take me an hour to fall back to sleep. I began to take EnerPrime immediately before retiring and now sleep soundly through the night. It's hard to over-emphasize the extent to which EnerPrime has improved the quality of my life.

“This is the best I’ve felt in 20 years!”

My main problem dealing with AIDS had been terrible fatigue. I have lacked the stamina to accomplish most tasks and spent a lot of time in bed. Soon after starting on EnerPrime it began to work for me. My T-cell count shot up by 100 points and I felt lots of energy. I have only taken EnerPrime for a few months and my fatigue is completely gone. This is the best I’ve felt in 20 years!

M. Orsak—Laguna Niguel, CA

“EnerPrime has quite literally given my life back to me.”

I suffer from a condition called chronic toxic encephalopathy (CTE) due to over-exposure to toxic chemicals while serving in the armed forces. I have permanent damage to my central nervous system and a severely impaired immune system. For twelve years I’ve experienced a gradual degeneration in my ability to fight off infections. In the summer of 2001 my immune system finally collapsed and I found myself bedridden.

About this time I came across EnerPrime. Within days I began to feel better and within weeks I felt well for the first time in many years. I no longer suffer from colds, flus, permanent muscle cramps and complete exhaustion. I play golf and swim four times a week, something I couldn’t even dream about before.

EnerPrime has quite literally given my life back to me.
